Nominee Gets CIA Briefing

Sen. John F. Kennedy received his third Central Intelligence Agency briefing as a potential U.S. president during his flight to San Diego yesterday for a rally appearance.

Flying with the Democratic presidential nominee was Gen. Charles P. Cabell, deputy CIA director.

A Kennedy staff member said Cabell spent 10 minutes with the candidate in a compartment aboard Kennedy's private Convair plane.

The staff member said Cabell gave the briefing from a written memorandum. He said the memorandum was not left with Kennedy.

President Eisenhower issued the directive that Kennedy be briefed on government intelligence information.
